Tim

Thank you for your two-month stint up here. I appreciate the fresh look and new insights you brought to the review process. Your review comments were perceptive and certainly improved the quality of the Directorate's analysis. Your work was especially helpful coming at the end-of-quarter crunch when an unusually large volume of papers were submitted for review.

Besides your help in reviewing papers, I know that Dick appreciated your thoughts on the number of issues that he raised with you. I hope the experience was likewise beneficial to you, and that you return to OGI with a good understanding of how the Directorate -- and the Agency -- operates. I only regret, as with your predecessors, that we didn't have more time to talk.
